

Traffic Changes at I-66 and Route 28 Interchange Starting On or About November 22, 2019

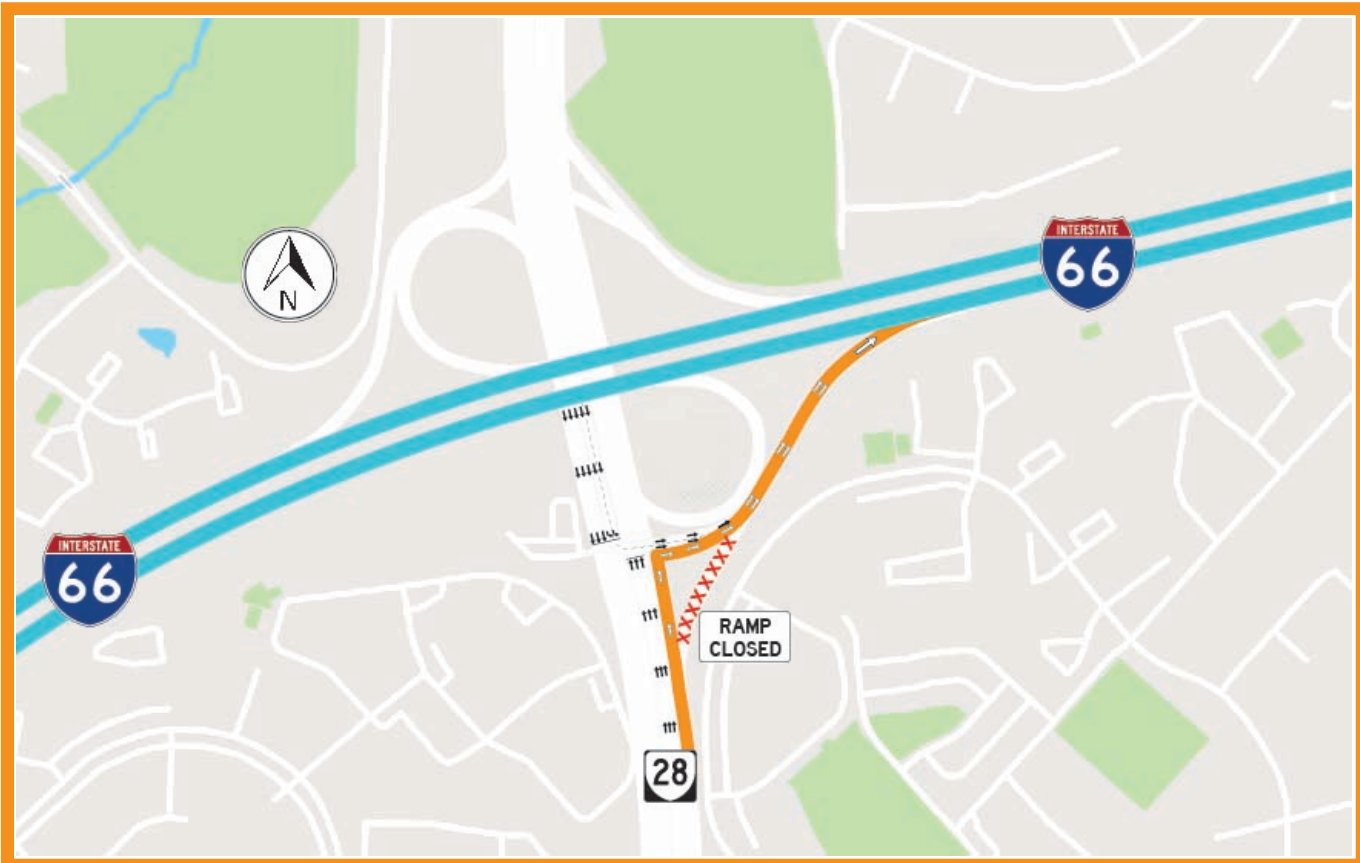

The I-66/Route 28 Interchange is being rebuilt for the Transform 66 Outside the Beltway Project. When construction is complete in 2022, the new configuration will be a multi-level interchange with 11 new bridges providing separate access to and from the I-66 express and general purpose lanes. Additionally, Walney and Braddock Roads will be reconnected via an overpass across Route 28, with direct access to and from I-66.

These improvements require a series of traffic pattern changes and detours during construction.

Starting on or about Friday, Nov. 22, 2019, drivers should expect the following traffic changes:

- The exit ramp from northbound Route 28 to I-66 East will close. Drivers will access I-66 East by continuing farther north on Route 28, turning right at the traffic signal onto a new ramp, and merging to join the existing ramp from southbound Route 28 to I-66 East.
- Drivers traveling south on Route 28 to the ramp to I-66 East should be alert for traffic merging onto the ramp from the right.

This traffic pattern will be in place while the new alignment of northbound Route 28 and ramps to I-66 are constructed.
